“Ring” Nets—Trawenagh Bay.

By the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland.

WHEREAS, at a public inquiry held at Dungloe on the 21st day of June, 1900, it was given in evidence that the practice of using “Ring” nets, for the capture of herrings, was carried on in Trawenagh Bay, County Donegal :

And Whereas, the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland are of opinion that the unrestricted use of such nets is injurious and detrimental to the Fisheries of the said Trawenagh Bay :

Now, the Department, by virtue and in exercise of the powers in them vested under the Agriculture and Technical Instruction (Ireland) Act, 1899, and of every other power enabling them in this behalf, do make and ordain the following By-Law :—

It is hereby prohibited at all times, save between the first day of November and the thirty-first day of December, in each year (both said days inclusive), to use any net commonly called and known as a “Ring” net ; or to use any net in the manner in which a “Ring” net is used, for the capture of herrings, in the said Trawenagh Bay, inside, or to the eastwards of an imaginary straight line from Dooey Point to Falchorrib Point, both in the County of Donegal.

Each and every person offending against the above By-Law shall, for each offence, forfeit and pay a sum of FIVE POUNDS ; and every net used contrary thereto shall be forfeited.

In witness whereof the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland have hereunto set their official seal this Eleventh day of July, One Thousand Nine Hundred.
