Hello,

Apologies for late short response.

Addressing better financial regulation through measures including tax is an increasingly essential undertaking, given growing awareness of monopolistic and profiteering MNE activities -

see for example, these recent articles by economists Constantin Gurdgiev and Jayati Ghosh

<https://socialeurope.eu/dealing-with-inflation-really>

Given assumed hyper-lobbying by parties focused only on amassing ever more money, citizens of Ireland will be depending on diligent public representatives and members of their departments to stand firm for equality, universal human needs and rights, and sustainability, in brokering this deal -
