SOCIAL INSURANCE PAYMENTS

The social insurance payments listed here are contributory payments. The contribution conditions for all payments are fully explained in the Department's publication 'Summary of social insurance and social assistance services' (S.W. 4), available free of charge. These conditions require that a person must have a certain number of contribution weeks paid or credited, over a specified period, to receive the maximum payment. Persons with less than the maximum number of contribution weeks may still receive social insurance payments at a lower rate. Persons who do not qualify for social insurance benefit may be entitled to social assistance.

Pay-Related Benefit

Pay-related benefit is payable in addition to disability benefit, unemployment benefit and maternity allowance. It may also be payable with injury benefit under the occupational injuries scheme.

Pay-related benefit is not payable to persons on systematic short-time.

AMOUNT OF BENEFIT

Pay-related benefit is calculated on a person's weekly earnings between £36 and £220 in the relevant income tax year. Weekly earnings are got by dividing by 50 the gross taxable earnings in that year up to a maximum of £11,000.

In 1983 the relevant income tax year is the 1981/82 year. From 3 January 1984 it will be the 1982/83 income tax year.

The benefit is payable at the following percentage rates:

25% for the first 141 days

20% for the next 234 days

} Sundays are not counted

OCCUPATIONAL INJURIES BENEFITS

Under the occupational injuries insurance scheme, the benefits shown here (pages 10 to 13) are payable to:

- i) insured persons who are injured in the course of their employment, or who contract a prescribed occupational disease.
- ii) the dependants of an insured person, where the insured person died as a result of such an accident or disease.

There are no contribution conditions for the award of these benefits.

Pay-related benefit is payable with injury benefit if the insured person would be entitled to receive disability benefit or maternity allowance were he/she not receiving injury benefit (see page 8).

HELP US TO SPEED UP PAYMENT: MAKE YOUR CLAIMS IN GOOD TIME

Claims for Benefit, Assistance or Grants should be made immediately the need arises.

Maternity claims should reach us eight weeks before the date of expected confinement.

Old Age and Retirement Pensions should be claimed three months before you qualify.

So, please remember, help us to speed up payment: make your claim in good time!

SOCIAL ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS

The social assistance payments shown here (pages 14 to 21) are for persons who have no insurance, or who have not enough insurance for social insurance benefit, or who have exhausted their entitlement to benefit. There are no contribution conditions for these payments, but claimants must satisfy a means test. The rates shown for supplementary welfare allowance and unemployment assistance are maximum rates and apply to persons who have no means. Where a person has means these rates will be reduced accordingly.

Rent Allowances

For tenants affected by the de-control of rents

The maximum weekly amount of an allowance is the difference between the old and the new rents. If, however, the old rent was less than £3 the maximum allowance is the new rent less £3.

You may qualify for the maximum allowance if your means do not exceed certain limits which are prescribed from time to time. If your means are over these limits an allowance may still be payable but at a reduced rate. The reduction is based on the amount by which your means exceed the prescribed limit.

CONTRIBUTION RATES

(Pay-Related Social Insurance (PRSI)
Intermittent Unemployment Insurance ('Wet-Time')
Voluntary Insurance)

The percentage rates of PRSI contributions payable from 6 April 1983 to 5 April 1984 are set out below. These contributions are payable on gross earnings, less allowable super-annuation contributions, up to the ceilings shown. A contribution of 2% representing the Youth Employment Levy and the Income Levy continues to be payable on all earnings in excess of £13,000.

The Health Contribution, Youth Employment Levy and the Income Levy are each fixed at 1% and are normally included in the employees share of the contribution. However, if the employee has a medical card, the employer pays all three elements.

A full description of the categories of workers in each contribution class is contained in the 'Summary of Social Insurance and Assistance Services' (S.W. 4) or leaflet S.W. 14 which are available free of charge from the Department of Social Welfare.

An Employers Guide to the PRSI system is also available.
