Mary

I've requirement for the admiralty chart in this application. Perhaps we will proceed without it and if one of our consultees raises it as an issue we can deal with it then.

Thank you for your detailed email. We are currently putting all the data together for the application (I received the form, and thanks for that too). Can you advise if we need the Admiralty Chart? There is no shipping in the area, simply small boat movement with animals to and from the islands, and occasional fishing boats. Hopefully all will be completed and ready for dispatch in the coming week

My apologies in the extreme delay in responding to your request for pre-application consultation in relation to the proposed slipway. I have asked our Wexford office to forward you a copy of the full application form. For bigger more complex application a meeting would generally be required as part of the pre-application process but for a small development such as this email correspondence or a phone call if required should suffice.

The crucial parts of the application are;

1. The Foreshore Lease map and associated Drawings of the structures
2. Supporting Documentation such as AA Screening, Design Report and Method Statement, as appropriate.
1. Foreshore Lease map and associated Drawings of the structures.

I attach an example of a foreshore lease map which you should use as guidance, The main criteria are it should be titled "Foreshore Lease Map" the Area below the HWM required for the slipway should be outlined red and labelled "Area A,XXha". ITM grid coordinates should be shown at the upper right hand corner and lower left hand corner of the map. The map should be preferable at 1:2500 or 1:1000 and on A3. I would suggest for this location the historic 25inch 1:2500 mapping is used as this mapping generally shows the correct HWM from a legal perspective.

The drawings of the structure required are general plans, elevations and sections of the structure sufficient to fully describe the structure and its location.

2. Supporting Documentation

A design report with method statements should also be submitted stating the design approach and the proposed method of construction. This should also include details of any measures to ensure no adverse impacts on the environment during construction and operation of the slipway.

I presume given the location of the development at an AA screening document will be required, while the screening is the responsibility of this department to complete most applicants submit an initial screening document with the application direct contact with your local NPWS office may guide you in relation to this issue.

I hope this guidance is useful and if you have any further queries please do not hesitate to contact me. Also you can submit the draft maps and documentation to myself for review prior to final submission.
