

THE MARITIME SAFETY ACT 2005

GUIDANCE NOTE

ON THE POWERS AVAILABLE TO LOCAL AUTHORITIES AND OTHER

RELEVANT AUTHORITIES ON REGULATING RECREATIONAL CRAFT

AND

PERSONAL WATERCRAFT (JETSKIS)

Background

The issue of guidelines for local and other relevant authorities was raised in the report of the Action Group on Small Powered Recreational Craft (Including Personal Watercraft) Report, 2000. This group was established following a number of accidents and broad public concern about the use of fast craft, particularly personal watercraft. The then Minister for the Marine and Natural Resources, Dr. Michael Woods, T.D., announced on 12 August, 1999, the setting up of a broadly representative Action Group to review the use of small powered recreational craft (including personal watercraft) and to recommend a best practice model for local and national management of personal watercraft and fast power craft in Ireland.

Since then the Maritime Safety Act 2005 has been introduced. The Act amongst other things aims to enhance public safety and amenity and to protect natural and other heritage areas, by granting locally based authorities enhanced powers to regulate the use of personal watercraft and recreational craft in particular fast powercraft in coastal waters, lakes and rivers.

The Maritime Safety Directorate has now drafted these guidelines on the powers available to local authorities and other relevant authorities to regulate craft such as fast powercraft and personal watercraft taking into account the Maritime Safety Act 2005.

Aim of the Guidelines

The aim of these guidelines is to:

- (i) assist local authorities, port and harbour authorities and Waterways Ireland in the proper management of water resources through the introduction by them of bye-laws under the Maritime Safety Act 2005 which would deal with all aspects of the local use of mechanically powered recreational craft;
- (ii) inform the authority making the bye-laws on issues relating to the design, implementation and management of such bye-laws.

1. Making a Bye-law

Section 6 of the Act of 2005 gives specific powers to the specified authorities to make bye-laws regulating and controlling the operation of personal watercraft and recreational craft or a specified class of such craft.

The authority proposing to make the bye-law should publish within a specified timeframe (which shall be not less than one month) a notice in one or more newspapers published in the State and circulating in the area to which the proposed bye-laws relate. A clear outline of the required process including consultation is covered in Section 7 of the Act. This notice should:

- Indicate that it is proposed to make such bye-laws and state the purpose of the bye-laws.
- Indicate the times at which, and the period (which shall be not less than one month) during which, a copy of the draft bye-laws will be available for public inspection, free of charge, at such place as is specified in the notice.
- State that a copy of the draft will be given to any person applying, on payment of a specified sum, if any, as the authority may have fixed.
- State that the authority will consider any submissions in relation to the draft which are submitted to the authority in writing by any person before such date as may be specified, not being less than 7 days after the end of the period for inspection of the draft.

In the case of making bye-laws regulating or controlling the operation of craft in or adjacent to a natural heritage area, or a monument or wreck protected under the National Monuments Acts, authorities are required by Section 6(7) of the Act to consult with the Minister for the Environment, Heritage and Local Government.

2. Consistency

Craft may operate in the functional areas of two or more local authorities. This increases the need for there to be a consistent approach by authorities in order that there are no unnecessary bye-law differences between different authority areas. Where there are adjoining local authority areas the possibility of introducing harmonised or complementary bye-laws should be pursued.

3. Zoning, Information & Signage

Authorities should take into account the right of all leisure users to enjoy public amenities. The public safety of all leisure users such as windsurfers, swimmers, sailors, fishermen, anglers, harbour users, personal watercraft users, recreational craft operators should be paramount. Authorities should seek the satisfactory resolution of any competing interests through consultation prior to the introduction of bye-laws at a local level. Powers to make bye-laws relating to zoning are contained in Section 6 of the Maritime Safety Act 2005. Authorities should take the following issues into consideration when drafting bye-laws.

- Areas can be designated for particular users e.g. swimmers, personal watercraft etc.
- Authorities may designate access and exit routes for craft.

- An authority may designate a distance from the shore in which craft specified by regulation may not enter. 200-300 metres is the distance from the shore that is currently in use in many existing bye-laws. If this is implemented it will be necessary to mark out a safe passage/corridor for operators to access and exit from the designated area.
- Authorities may restrict times of operation (e.g. prohibit the use of personal watercraft in early morning or late evening).
- Craft of specified classes can be prohibited from use in Marine Protected Areas, Special Areas of Conservation and heritage areas or areas where craft constitute a nuisance or create a disturbance e.g. to birds and habitats.

4. Launching of Craft

It is advised that where an area of water is designated for non-use of craft, the authority should in so far as possible provide for suitable launching areas and for clearly marked lanes to allow such craft access to and from permitted areas of use.

The Act mentions that an authority which prohibits or restricts the operation of craft when zoning shall erect and maintain notices giving details of the prohibition or restriction in conspicuous places on or near the waters concerned.

The Report of the Action Group on Small Powered Recreational Craft (Including Personal Watercraft) Report advises that where zoning is being implemented, the relevant authority should consider the question of adequate signage and designation markings using standards and formats for signs and buoys which are in operation both nationally and internationally.

Onshore signs should be used to:

- give precautionary safety information
- explain zoning, bye-laws and restrictions
- indicate penalties/fines for breach of bye-law
- communicate local and national codes of conduct
- give information on weather, tides and water quality
- explain special features of the area e.g. wildlife habitats etc.

The Report also advised that zoned water areas should be marked by laying clearly visible buoys at suitable intervals which are readily understood by all users of the area and cannot be confused with buoys, or 'marks', laid to assist navigation.

Signage at launch points should clearly show the local zones and launch channels, and explain to whom these apply and how they are to be used.

5. Speed Restrictions

Section 6 the Maritime Safety Act 2005 provides powers relating to setting of maximum speed limits for craft. The Action Group Report examined the speed limits of authorities in a number of other jurisdictions and reported that many jurisdictions use 5 knots as the standard maximum speed limit.

5.1 Wash/Wake

It is important that there is no significant wash/wake generated by vessels when travelling at any speed. The Report of the Action Group on Small Powered Recreational Craft (Including Personal Watercraft) recommended that the relevant authorities should by way of bye-laws, prohibit vessels from operating in such a manner so as ensure that a wash/wake is not created which would adversely affect other users, flora & fauna or the marine environment. Wash from vessels is extremely dangerous to swimmers, to people in small boats (canoeists, anglers in open boats, children in sailing dinghies) and even to those in cruisers as it can cause boats to roll and people to fall overboard.

6. Operation of Craft in a Safe Manner

The Maritime Safety Directorate has drafted the Code of Practice for the Safe Operation of Recreational Craft. The Code sets out current national legislative requirements governing recreational craft as well as providing detailed guidance and information on best practice for the safe operation of such craft. This Code will be available to the public in 2006.

7. Wearing of Personal Floatation Devices (PFDs)/ Lifejackets

PFD/ Lifejackets should be worn in accordance with the national legislation; The Pleasure Craft (Personal Flotation Devices and Operation) (Safety) Regulations 2005 (S.I. No. 921 of 2005). Copies can be found at www.transport.ie/pfdlifejackets

8. Authorised Persons

Section 17 of the Maritime Safety Act 2005 covers the appointment of Authorised Persons.

Authorised persons can for the purposes of this Act be appointed in writing by the Minister, the local authority, Waterways Ireland, an harbour authority, a harbour company and Iarnród Éireann-Irish Rail. The Gardaí Síochána will automatically be empowered to act as authorised persons. The authorised persons may exercise their authority within the functional area of the relevant authority that appointed them.

Authorised Persons will be furnished with a warrant of appointment and have authority to operate within the functional area of the relevant authority that appointed them. In certain circumstances with the agreement of another authority, enter upon any waters within the functional area or under the control or management of that other authority or land adjoining those waters.

An authorised person appointed by the Minister or a member of the Garda Síochána may for the purposes of enforcing the relevant section of the Act enter upon any Irish waters or land adjoining the waters.

9. Enforcement Powers

From an enforcement point of view Sections 8,9,10,11,12,13,14,15, and 19 of the Maritime Safety Act 2005 provide authorised persons with the following relevant powers:

- Require people to cease operating craft or to remove it from waters in certain circumstances.
- Seize craft in the interests of safety
- Prohibit the operation of craft in Irish waters which operate without reasonable consideration or at unreasonable speed.
- Stop, board and inspect craft
- Dealing with persons who obstruct authorised person
- Powers of arrest
- Forfeiture of craft
- Prohibition of individuals from operating craft
- Provision for prosecution of offences committed under the above sections.

10. Penalties, Fines and Prosecutions

Section 16 outlines the penalties in the Maritime Safety Act 2005. Fines of up to €2,000 on summary conviction for offences under the Bye-laws are provided for, as well as fixed payment notices ("on-the-spot-fines"), and provision is also made for the seizure, detention and forfeiture of craft involved in offences and for disqualification of serious offenders from operating craft of the types in question, in the interest of public safety, etc.

A copy of Maritime Safety Act 2005 (Fixed Payment Notices) Regulations 2005 is attached . The Regulations prescribe the form of Fixed Payment Notices ("on-the-spot-fines") in lieu of prosecution, if appropriate, in relation to alleged offences under the Maritime Safety Act 2005. The fixed payment is currently set at €150 for most offences and €50 in other cases (but either or both amounts may be changed in the future by Ministerial Regulations under section 16 of that Act).

Any fine in respect of an offence prosecuted summarily by an authority shall be paid to the authority which prosecuted the offence.

11.Exemptions

Section 18 of the Maritime Safety Act 2005 states that bye-laws made under Section 6 of the Act do not apply to craft operated in the course of duty of-

- (a) the authority concerned,
  - (b) the Garda Síochána,
  - (c) the Defence Forces,
  - (d) the Revenue Commissioners,
  - (e) the Central Fisheries Board or a Regional Fisheries Board (within the meaning of the Fisheries Act 1980),
  - (f) the Irish Coast Guard,
  - (g) the Commissioners of Irish Lights, or
  - (h) the Royal National Lifeboat Institution,
- or any craft involved in bona fide law enforcement, emergency or rescue missions.

12. What to do in the event of an accident

Under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Investigation of Marine Casualties) Act, 2000, it is the responsibility of all owners, operators, and Skippers to advise the Chief Surveyor, or a Marine Surveyor of the Marine Survey Office of any incident which qualifies as a marine casualty as soon as practical after it occurs. Where it is considered that an incident warrants it, an investigation will be instigated, and an Accident Investigator appointed.

A marine casualty means an event or process which causes or poses the threat of death or serious injury to a person; the loss of a person overboard; significant loss or stranding of, or damage to, or collision with, a vessel or property; or significant damage to the environment.

13. Other Relevant Legislation

The Merchant Shipping (Pleasure Craft)(Lifejackets and Operation)(Safety) Regulations, 2004 provides for age restrictions and controls on the operation of craft by persons under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

There is also national legislation regarding the International Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea, COLREGs. These govern the interaction of vessels on the water, and apply to all recreational craft at sea and on waters navigable by sea going vessels. The Rules also apply to sections of our inland waterways and are available on the Department's website.

Bye-laws introduced by an authority must be consistent with provisions which are clearly specified in national legislation.

The Appendix attached provides a brief summary of the principal statutory provisions of the Maritime Safety Act 2005.

14. Complaints Procedure

Appropriate local authority complaints procedures should be applied to the implementation of the regulations.

APPENDIX

A Brief Summary of the Principal Statutory Provisions of the Maritime Safety Act 2005

Part 1 contains standard technical provisions for short title and collective citation and interpretation and commencement of the Act, for repeal of spent or superseded provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts 1894 to 2000 and other Acts (as detailed in the Schedule) and for the Exchequer to bear the cost of administration of the Act by certain Ministers.

Part 2 is the principal part of the Act dealing with the control of mechanically propelled recreational craft including personal watercraft. It is of particular importance as it contains powers for local authorities and other relevant authorities to make bye-laws regulating craft such as jet skis and other mechanically propelled sport and leisure craft in their areas. The following are the key provisions in Part 2.

- f* Section 5 defines certain terms and references used in Part 2 of this Act, so as to avoid unnecessary repetition of definitions and references.
- f* Section 6 confers bye-law making powers to regulate or control the operation of mechanically propelled personal watercraft and other recreational craft.
- f* Section 7 sets out procedural requirements for the making of bye-laws under section 6 by authorities specified in section 5 of the Act. Please note duties under subsections 1 to 10.
- f* Section 8 gives powers to authorised persons and the Gardaí Síochána to require people to cease operating a craft, or to remove it from waters in certain circumstances.
- f* Section 9 is a further enforcement provision to permit the seizure and detention, in the public interest, of craft suspected to be involved in serious offences under this Act, or being carelessly or dangerously operated.
- f* Section 10 prohibits the operation of craft in Irish waters without reasonable consideration or at unreasonable speed.
- f* Section 11 makes provision for the stopping, boarding and inspection of craft by authorised persons or a member of the Garda Síochána and penalises failure to cooperate with them in the matter.
- f* Section 12 makes it an offence for a person to obstruct an authorised person or a member of the Garda Síochána exercising functions under this Act.
- f* Section 13 provides power of arrest without warrant of suspected offenders to Gardaí and authorised persons with requisite training. Authorised persons will be obliged to hand-over an arrested person to a member of the Garda Síochána as soon as possible to be dealt with according to law.

- f* Section 14 supplements the penalties prescribed for the offence of dangerous operation of craft by empowering the court to also order the forfeiture of that craft, for the benefit of the authority within whose functional area the offence was committed, on the conviction of the owner or operator for that offence on indictment.
- f* Section 15 provides for the automatic disqualification for a period of up to 2 years (but more where dangerous operation is involved) of convicted offenders from operating craft.
- f* Section 16 makes provision for fixed payment notices ("on-the-spot-fine") as an alternative to prosecution for certain offences under Part 2 of this Act, if appropriate.
- f* Section 17 makes provision for the appointment of authorised persons (other than members of the Gardaí Síochána who have general law enforcement powers as well as specific ones set out in the Act) to give effect to the regulation and control of operation of craft.
- f* Section 18 outlines those who are exempt from bye-laws under section 6.
- f* Section 19 makes provision for the prosecution by the relevant authority of summary offences under Part 2 of the Act and recovery of costs by and payment of fines to that authority in relation to successful prosecutions.

Part 3 of the Act provides powers for dealing with operators of vessels who are under the influence of alcohol or drugs, or are involved in the careless and dangerous navigation. There are also powers relating to the prohibition of unseaworthy vessels and stopping, boarding and inspecting of vessels by authorised persons. This section is directed at all vessels.

Part 4 enables the Minister to regulate passenger boats, fishing vessels and pleasure craft for the purpose of the safety of these vessels and their occupants. This part also updates penalty and other provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts 1894 to 2000.

Part 5 updates penalty and other provisions of other Acts, while Part 6 relates to foreshore and aquaculture licences.
